for all your help on tuesday. the state police will be trying to find the caregiver, but becky gave only the name. and i discovered that our patron code of conduct needed revision to cover a situation of this type. i appreciate your assistance. i was sure we couldn't give info but i wanted to make sure. and midhudson (rebekkah) came through again. what would we do without you? elizabeth

Rebekkah -

This thank you is not only for your presence at the Friends Meeting last night. It's also for all the other times you've been there when called upon, including after "regular" office hours. It's truly comforting to have such a professional watching our backs, and if you manage to convey that same winning attitude to all the libraries in the system -- we'll then, you are definitely overworked and underpaid -- but certainly not undervalued, most certainly not by us at HAL.

Theresa

Rebekkah,

Thank you SO much for your wonderful presentation on Thursday night!

I've had many great compliments about the evening, so just wanted to let you know that we are very appreciative of your time and also all your positive comments about the group. It's really refreshing to hear how great the group is from someone else (especially from you, since you have an enlightened perspective of such matters!).

Hope to maybe see you at the Book Festival on Saturday....look for the red balloons, that's us!

Thanks so very much again for that terrific presentation...it was very inspiring! And any time you're in Hudson and would like to meet for breakfast or lunch, it's on me. Just let me know a date and time.

Best,
Vicki
